OFFERING A WAY OUT OF SEX TRADE

PROSTITUTES and persistent kerb crawlers are being targeted by police in a campaign that aims to put an end to Medway's illegal sex trade troubles.

Medway Police's Safe Exit initiative provides a range of support - such as housing, drug treatment and education - to women who sell their bodies on the streets.

It also aims to crack down on the men who scour the streets to pay these women for sex.

Early results have shown that Safe

Exit is having an impact. Police chiefs said there were more than 110 street workers in Medway in August 2009, when the £180,000-a-year scheme was started.

This figure has plummeted to just 20 as of last month.

More than 80 per cent of women caught up in the illegal sex trade in Medway have signed up to Safe Exit.

One woman, who gave the alias of Sally, said she had benefitted from the scheme.

"Once Safe Exit began and I started seeing results it gave me an incentive to carry on," she said.

"It's different to how it's been before, as there are actually people backing their promises up with funding this time and we're seeing results."

"I didn't think it would work for me at first, but now I have stability."

More than 50 kerb crawlers have also taken part in Safe Exit's 'change course' in the past seven months.

The £200 course is available to first-time offenders and spares the kerb crawler a court appearance.

Inspector Gary Woodward said: "Prostitution in Medway has been

PODIUM FINISH FOR OUR MHAIRI

It was bronze for Britain on Sunday when top athlete Mhairi Spence took third place at the Modern Pentathlon World Cup.

The 24-year-old performed strongly throughout the four-day event, held at Gillingham's new Medway Park sports complex, winning the fencing discipline and putting in a strong display in the riding arena.

The Scot said she was delighted to secure a place on the podium as third place is her best World Cup finish.

She said: "It has been amazing. I was aiming for the top six. I just wanted to have a decent competition, so to come out on the podium is a bit more than I expected."

Big guns hope to

■ BY SIMON ROBINSON

LABOUR and the Conservatives have signalled their desire to win the marginal Medway parliamentary seats by sending their political heavyweights to the towns.

The ruling Labour party played their ace card last week – the day the General Election was announced – with Prime Minister Gordon Brown visiting all three Medway constituencies during a whistle-stop tour of the area.

Mr Brown and his wife Sarah first spoke with shoppers and staff at Morrisons supermarket in Strood.

Labour party activist Noreen Chambers, 48, from Hoo St Werburgh, said: "I couldn't believe it when I heard the Prime Minister was coming to the store. I came here to shop but I saw all the cameras and managed to shake his hand."

"I said thank you for all you have done for the country. This is a feather in our cap. It was amazing."

The first person Mr Brown spoke to in the store was Mrs Chambers' grandson Elijah, aged ten. The youngster said: "He asked me if I was on holiday and I told him yes. He asked me what my favourite subject was and I told him it was science."

Mr Brown also spoke with workers at his next stop, Aylesford Print Works, in the constituency of Labour's Jonathan Shaw, who held the seat in 2005 by a margin of more than 2,300 votes.

CONFIDENT: Gordon Brown and his party leave Morrisons in Strood on the day he announced the election date. Right, Mr Brown spoke to shoppers and staff at the supermarket

From there Mr Brown was driven to the Rainham home of Labour party members Harry and Mary Keene, where he met local community leaders.

Speaking to Yourmedway, the Prime Minister said: "I said we would fight for every vote, and we are fighting for every vote. We will not be complacent."

"I believe we are on the road to recovery. We must not put that at risk. We are the best for the future. We are building for the future."

On the same day as Mr Brown's visit, the Tories' shadow cabinet office minister Francis Maude MP helped kick-start Rehman Chishti's parliamentary campaign in

Going all the way to the wire

GILLINGHAM and Rainham is ranked among the Labour Party's most at risk seats in the country and is expected to go right to the wire.

In 2005, Paul Clark clung on to the seat, winning with a majority of just 254 votes.

He has held the seat since 1997.

The electoral wards making up the expanded constituency are Gillingham North, Gillingham South, Hempstead and Wigmore, Rainham Central, Rainham North, Rainham South, Twydall and Watling.

The candidates are:

PAUL CLARK (LABOUR): "Born in Gillingham, married in Rainham and a Dad of two – that's why I care so much for our towns and why I will be by your side and on your side when it matters."

REHMAN CHISHTI (CONSERVATIVE): "My party believes that public services can be improved to deliver higher productivity and value for money for taxpayers."

"The Conservatives have pledged to protect health spending and deliver real terms increases, and honour our commitments on international aid."

ANDREW STAMP (LIBERAL DEMOCRATS): "I'm fed up with the endless succession of Labour and Conservative governments that never change anything."

"I was born and brought up here and I still live in Gillingham, so I understand the problems local people face – I want real change for our area."

TRISH MARCHANT (GREEN): "I am standing for election because I strongly believe in both the Green Party's robust environmental strategies and the party's social and economic policies."

"We will make a difference in all sectors of society and lead to a sustainable, low carbon future."

GEORGE MEEGAN (INDEPENDENT): "To bring good jobs to Gillingham, I advocate cutting VAT and replacing with a carbon tax. This triggers re-engineering all manufacturing to zero emission. Gillingham's great history of innovation can lead."

ROBERT OAKLEY (UKIP): "I am not standing just because I want the job – none of the other parties represent the views of UKIP voters. I am not a politician, just an angry voter."

DEAN LACEY (ENGLISH DEMOCRATS): "We spend far too much money on services like translation services here in Medway, a service that creates communities where the English language is not spoken at all."

"There must be a limit where immigrants cannot rely on the service to live."

BRIAN RAVENSCROFT (BNP): "Mass immigration has changed the face of the constituency and has resulted in British people being put last."

"I will campaign to end this anti-British discrimination and put the rights of our people first."

AT RISK LIST: The candidates are, from left, Andy Stamp, Dean Lacey, Paul Clark, Robert Oakley, Rehman Chishty, and Trish Marchant

swing your vote

Gillingham High Street, where the pair spoke to shoppers.

Shadow Chancellor of the Exchequer George Osborne further boosted the Conservative's bid to swing the Medway marginals by stopping off in the towns on Monday. He visited MEMS Power Generation in Beechings Way, Gillingham, alongside parliamentary candidate Rehman Chishti before heading to Johnstones Tools in Rochester High Street with would-be MP Mark Reckless.

Mr Osborne said he was hopeful that voters would support the Tory candidates on Thursday, May 6.

He said: "We've got three really strong candidates in the Medway seats and that is going to mean that this area has strong MPs in Parliament standing up for this area, making sure that it doesn't get neglected as it has been in the past."

New battle lines drawn

LABOUR MP Jonathan Shaw has held this seat since the party's landslide victory in 1997 and won the 2005 election with a majority of more than 2,300 votes.

Recent boundary changes have seen the wards of Chatham Central, Lordswood and Capstone, Luton and Wayfield, Princes Park and Walderslade (from the Medway constituency) and Aylesford, Blue Bell Hill and Walderslade, Burham, Eccles and Wouldham, Ditton, Larkfield North, Larkfield South, Snodland East and Snodland West (from the Tonbridge and Malling constituency) move within Chatham and Aylesford.

The seven candidates standing are: JONATHAN SHAW (LABOUR) "I won't promise people anything I cannot deliver. I will continue to work hard and do my best for people who need my help."

TRACEY CROUCH (CONSERVATIVE): "We are committed to providing far more of the high-quality, A-level standard apprenticeships which Labour have diluted."

JOHN MCCLINTOCK (LIBERAL DEMOCRATS): "Britain needs a new political system. The society needs to be much fairer. And people's voices must be heard.

CHATHAM & AYLESFORD

"It was for these reasons that I am standing as a Liberal Democrat.

"Our party is not dependent on either rich families or trade unions for our funds. We have the independence to act in the interests of the whole country."

DAVE ARTHUR (GREEN): "I believe that caring about my society, country and environment makes me an ideal candidate for the Green party."

STEVE NEWTON (UKIP): "UKIP's policy is a total freeze on immigration for five years, while we sort out what's been going on in this country."

SEAN VARNHAM (ENGLISH DEMOCRATS): "Reform is needed within the structure and delivery of services, not cuts."

COLIN MCCARTHEY-STEWART (BNP): "I have seen this country change since the 60s and 70s. It has been a change for the worse."

ROCHESTER AND STROOD

ROCHESTER and Strood replaces the former Medway constituency held by Bob Marshall-Andrews.

In the 2005 election, the seat was won by Mr Marshall-Andrews, who is standing down, by only 213 votes after initially conceding defeat on the night.

The adjusted boundaries now incorporate the wards of Cuxton and Halling, Peninsula, River, Rochester East, Rochester South and Horsted, Rochester West, Strood North, Strood Rural and Strood South.

The six candidates vying for election in 2010 are:

TERESA MURRAY (LABOUR): "Building up the public services and involving smaller businesses in innovation and service provision helps to keep the local economy going, that's why the Labour government has expanded jobs in public services – when people have money to spend they use smaller local businesses."

MARK RECKLESS (CONSERVATIVE): "I have stood for Parliament here twice

Change is inevitable as MP stands down before and I believe that I have demonstrated the tenacity, principle and perseverance which I will need to represent this constituency.

"It is time for change and only the Conservatives can beat Labour here." GEOFF JUBY (LIBERAL DEMOCRATS): "I will fight for fair taxes for everyone, with no tax to be paid on the first £10,000 per year; fair funding for Medway NHS; and fair deals for our troops on pay, and compensation when injured."

SIMON MARCHANT (GREEN): "I stand knowing I am doing all I can about climate change. I have also realised inequality is damaging our society; the poor need defending.

Local businesses are the future; we need them for jobs and goods but they need us too."

ROBIN JOHNSON (UKIP): "Give independence to head teachers over teaching, examinations and discipline.

"Scrap useless paperwork and trust teachers to do their jobs; oppose the closures of special schools.

"Encourage competitive sports, playing fields and school trips."

RON SANDS (ENGLISH DEMOCRATS): "I believe the time has come for an English party to represent English interests and equal devolution for England, with a Parliament for England with at least the same powers as the Scottish Parliament."

Family members deny part in hit and run murder of Jack Treeby

CLOSE relatives of a father-of-five killed in a hit-and-run have pleaded not guilty for their part in his murder.

Bill Treeby, 49, appeared at Maidstone Crown Court last Friday, where he denied murdering his brother Jack Treeby.

The accused's wife Charity, 50, and their sons Bill (Jnr), 29, and George, 22, were alongside him in the dock. They also deny murder.

All four, of Queen Street, Paddock Wood, also denied attempting to murder Gary Treeby, Jack and Bill's brother, and Jack's young son - Jack (Jnr) - and conspiring to kill another brother, John Treeby.

The charges relate to events which took place on Sunday, December, 27, of last year, in Quarry Road, Tovil, in Maidstone.

■ BY ANNA WHITE

At 7pm, Jack Treeby, 43, from Rainham, was ploughed down by a Range Rover and crushed beneath its wheels. He died at the scene.

His son was allegedly clipped by the vehicle and treated for minor injuries.

Life-threatening

Gary Treeby suffered life-threatening injuries during the incident, which were exacerbated by gunshot wounds, but has now recovered.

A further count of conspiracy to murder John Treeby was also put to the four defendants.

They are all accused of plotting his death between December 1 and 31 of last year.

Judge Andrew Patience QC warned other family members, who sat in the public gallery to listen to their relatives' pleas, to refrain from any outbursts during the hearing or he would be "forced to deal" with them "there and then".

Speaking shortly after her husband's death, Karen Treeby said: "We have been robbed of a wonderful, caring man who will live in our hearts forever."

His four relatives accused of his death have been remanded in custody until Monday, September 27, when they will face a four-week trial.

They all face the following charges: the murder of Jack Treeby; the attempted murder of Gary Treeby; causing grievous bodily harm with intent to Gary Treeby; attempted murder of Jack Treeby (Jnr); attempting to inflict grievous bodily harm on Jack Treeby (Jnr); and conspiracy to murder John Treeby between December 1 and 31.

Police hunt late-night car vandals

MORE than 50 cars were keyed, scratched and daubed with graffiti during a late-night crime spree, police have revealed.

The vehicles were targeted in Dale Street, Wyndham Road and Balfour Road, all Chatham, last Thursday. Walls and garages have also been damaged.

Detective Chief Inspector Dave Berry said: "This is a mindless act of vandalism that has caused widespread damage to an area of Chatham."

"We will be working hard to find out who was responsible for this and taking action. We have been speaking to all victims of this crime in the area and been carrying out door-to-door enquiries."

"Our Neighbourhood officers have been gathering information and we are urging anyone with information to come forward."

"Medway Council's graffiti team are also in the area to help clean some of the walls that have been affected."

Anyone with information is asked to contact DC Lorraine Morgan at Medway Police Station on 01634 792435.

SCARY GUY'S FULL OF LOVE

DESPITE having a face that would terrify young children, The Scary Guy's visit to Gillingham last week was to help spread his message of love. Born Earl Kenneth Kaufmann, the anti-bullying and violence campaigner legally changed his name in 1998 and uses his heavily-tattooed appearance to draw attention to his goal of world peace.

On Easter Monday it was Gillingham's turn to heed the words of the Scary Guy, who delivered his speech near the Naval memorial at The Lines, Gillingham.

The 20-stone American said his message taught young people to put prejudice and intolerance aside and show love and acceptance to each other.

Offering prostitutes a Safe Exit

around for more than 100 years, and until 2009 there had been little change in the way into it was being dealt with.

"Safe Exit is more than just trying to remove the women from working the streets or move them to another area."

"What we're trying to do is change the behaviours of the women working, and also the behaviours of men who use prostitutes."

Phillip Cooper, from the Medway Drug and Alcohol Action Team (DAAT) said there was a range of support on offer for prostitutes.

"Once we've started initial drug treatment, we are able to offer a wide range of opportunities to women," he said. "Safe Exit can help women get training, employment and education. This is not just a quick fix."

"We believe that by offering the support that these women have never had, we can have a huge positive impact on the illegal sex trade in Medway."

Inspector Woodward added: "Safe Exit is a unique way in which prostitution is being dealt with and we are now beginning to see real changes."

"Changes to the way men are acting, changes to the street sex workers and most importantly, changes to the public of Medway who can now feel safe and happy in their home environment."

Football bosses get tested for the 'silent killer'

FOOTBALL is good for your health – just so long as your side's winning.

This point was proved by Gills boss Mark Stimson, who agreed to have his blood pressure checked before and after last Monday's crucial home game against Southend.

Mark posted a healthy figure of 130/80 before kick-off, which fell to a relaxed 110/60 immediately after the Gills' comfortable 3-0 victory.

The manager said: "Us managers can get rather stressed on match day. It was a must-win game for us and I guess I was more relaxed after the final whistle."

The test was carried out by the South East Coast Ambulance Service NHS Trust (SECAmb), ahead of its inaugural Know Your Blood Pressure Day on Saturday.

Throughout the day SECAmb clinicians will take people's blood pressure for free at a number of locations across Kent, Sussex and Surrey.

It is hoped the event will help identify those who are at risk of suffering from serious conditions, including strokes.

Mark added: "I was keen to be involved when the ambulance service asked me to be and I'd encourage others to have their blood pressure measured to ensure they're not at risk."

■ BY SIMON ROBINSON

Brighton boss Gus Poyet also had his blood pressure tested before and after the Seagulls' clash with Tranmere Rovers.

The former Chelsea and Tottenham star saw his rates rise from 130/70 to 150/90 despite his side's 3-0 win.

Monitored

Gus said: "It was interesting to see how my blood pressure rose when under stress and excitement."

"I think the results work as a good example to show the kind of things that can make people's blood pressure rise in everyday life and why it's important to have it checked regularly."

At SECAmb's Know Your Blood Pressure events members of the public will also have the opportunity to have their pulse monitored and if irregular have an ECG (electrocardiogram) check. SECAmb will also be teaching the FAST test – a test to perform in an emergency when someone is suspected of having suffered a stroke.

ALL CLEAR: Gills boss Mark Stimson gets checked over

SECAmb paramedic and stroke lead David Davis said: "It's extremely important that people, whatever their age, know their blood pressure and have it checked regularly."

"This can be carried out with a visit to a GP but Know Your Blood Pressure Day is an ideal opportunity for people to have their blood pressure checked for free at convenient locations in their area."

The Stroke Association's Laura Dart said: "It's estimated that 40 per cent of the 150,000 strokes suffered by people in the UK each year could be prevented by controlling high blood pressure."

"High blood pressure is often called the 'silent killer' as it does not always have any symptoms. Having this quick and simple test could save your life."

The nearest Know Your Blood Pressure Day event will be held at Tesco's, Chalkwell Road, Sittingbourne.

Teenager is given three years for 'senseless' attack

A TEENAGE thug who stabbed a man in the back, thigh and buttock has been jailed for three years.

Jermaine Cole, 18, of Lambeth Close, Chatham, plunged a knife into his Rochester victim three times in May of last year.

The horror attack took place in a park near Laburnum Road, Strood, following an altercation between two groups of teenagers. The victim, also 18, was left with severe injuries.

Cole pleaded guilty to wounding with intent at Maidstone Crown Court.

He was jailed on Friday, March 26.

Detective Constable Julie McNeil said: "This was a senseless act of violence which could have had much more serious consequences."

"We are pleased with the sentence given and hope that it acts as a deterrent to others who are considering carrying knives."

"Cole carried a knife and was intent on using it in a violent manner. Had he not armed himself with a weapon then it is very likely that the altercation would not have reached such a dangerous level."

"Kent Police does not condone the use of violence at any level. Those who do carry knives to commit crime will be brought to justice."

QUESTION & ANSWER

CLIVE LAWRENCE

Q Tell us a little bit about yourself.

A I achieved my dream by working for the BBC as a journalist for more than 20 years and have gone on to run my own business from Gillingham, where we have lived since I came to work at BBC Radio Kent. As a Devonian I love cider and clotted cream. Our three girls have left home and are pursuing their careers so it's great when they come home for family Sunday lunch.

I am a member of Rotary and get huge satisfaction from taking part in a range of hands-on projects to help people in my community as well as those overseas.

Q Tell us a bit about the Federation of Small Businesses (FSB).

A It's Britain's leading business organisation, represents more than 200,000 self-employed and small business owners and is run by the members for the members. There are 6,581 Kent members.

Q What's the best bit about your job?

A As a professional communicator there is nothing more satisfying than to convince others that what you are saying is right. However, just telling the truth, as you see it, is not good enough; you have to look for ways to persuade others through real examples which your audience can appreciate.

Q And the most challenging?

A Finding a way around those people who have their minds made up and are resistant to change.

Q What do members get?

A As a right of membership, FSB members have access to a wide range of services including:

- Legal advice from qualified lawyers 24/7 all year
- Tax advice from Inland Revenue trained specialists.
- Tax protection against in-depth tax investigations for all FSB member's businesses.
- Information on employment law, health & safety, tax and commercial law through the FSB members-only website
- Legal documents downloadable in MS Word which can be styled to your business available through the same website
- Insurance cover for legal defence and an employment disputes service with payment of statutory awards

Q How do you qualify to join FSB?

A You have to be self-employed or run a small business of fewer than 250 people. In reality, 99 per cent of members employ 20 or fewer and 95 per cent employ up to 10 people.

Q Do you see things picking up after the recession?

A FSB Kent Business Barometer is run every six months, with the next due in two months' time.

Last November the economic climate appeared to have bottomed out and the decline of the previous three years had halted. The fact is that small businesses form the bedrock of the whole economy of the country. Just imagine if each business owner created just one job each. Overnight, Britain's unemployment figures would disappear!

Q What advice would you give to someone thinking of starting a business?

A Do your research and talk to as many people in business as you can to collect their tips. But remember only to talk to people who have succeeded – why get advice from people who have a poor track record?

Q Anything you'd like to add?

A Always make time for yourself and the family. In the end, they are the first priority!

Residents rewarded for putting neighbours first

BY SIMON ROBINSON

COMMUNITY-minded residents who regularly go the extra mile for their neighbours were last night honoured for their efforts.

The celebratory evening saw the work and commitment of a number of previously unsung local heroes officially recognised by the Medway Community Safety Partnership.

Former store manager Alan Seed, from Hempstead, was one of those due to be honoured.

The 57-year-old came to the aid of his elderly neighbour Bert Bourquin, 88, who had been plagued by a series of nuisance calls from common demanding thousands of pounds in cash.

Mr Bourquin's telephone troubles began in December, when a man rang asking for money to be paid to him.

The homeowner said: "The guy on the line said he was calling on behalf of the company that had done some work on the house some time ago but had since gone into liquidation.

"He told me they owed me £5,000 and had a cheque for £7,000 but as it was for the wrong amount I would need to send them the balance.

"He kept ringing asking to meet with me to discuss the money that was owed saying he was happy to come around to the house if I could get the cash out of the bank."

At this point Mr Bourquin told Mr Seed, who called their neighbourhood police officer, PC

Debbie Tyler, for advice and checked up on him regularly.

Mr Bourquin said: "A couple of days later I was called again, with the man this time claiming to be a police officer from another county asking about the money I was owed.

"At that point I remembered my chat with Debbie and told the guy that he should link in with her at Kent Police.

"The phone went dead. I never heard from them again.

"It was such a great help having great neighbours to whom I could turn for advice. As for the support from our neighbourhood police team, I really couldn't have asked for more."

Mr Seed was honoured at the Corn Exchange yesterday evening.

OTHERS RECOGNISED: Les Hitchcock who runs a thriving youth club in Halling; Denis Vines, a security guard at the Trafalgar Centre in Chatham; and Joan and Don MacFarlane from Gillingham co-ordinators of the Darland Neighbourhood Watch scheme for the past 25 years.

Tool thief arrested after dog walker notes registration

A DOG walker has been hailed by police after helping to catch a young tool thief who made off with more than £1,000 of equipment.

The quick-thinking resident was walking by All Saints Church, Strood, on Tuesday, March 30, when he spotted a man hurriedly loading tools into a white escort van from a container.

Believing the man to be suspicious, he wrote down the vehicle's registration number and passed it onto the local vicar.

The following day the owner of the container reported his tools as stolen.

Traced

The vicar gave police the registration number and traced it to a 20-year-old Rochester man, who later confessed to the theft. He received a police caution.

Strood North neighbourhood officer PC Gavin Nicholls said: "Thanks to the quick thinking of the resident who wrote down the registration number of the vehicle we were able to quickly identify the offender and make an arrest.

"This is a great example of how the local community can help Kent Police in Medway solve crime.

"The owner of the tools has now been reunited with his belongings and is pleased with how the situation was dealt with.

"I would like to thank the residents for their continued support in Strood and we would always encourage people to report anything they may think is suspicious.

"Equally, people should ensure that any containers, buildings or vehicles are secured properly to prevent them becoming the target for opportunistic thieves."

Civil rights group warn police over kept images

■ BY MARIJKE COX

KENT Police could face a flood of High Court cases after being accused of breaking privacy laws by storing photographs of innocent motorists.

Campaigners from the civil rights group Liberty have vowed to support anyone who wants to take legal action against the force after a report by the National Policing Improvement Agency revealed that pictures taken using automatic number plate recognition (ANPR) technology – which are stored for up to two years – sometimes catch passengers' faces.

The Liberty threat could spell particular trouble for Kent which has so far invested £5.3 million into the system and claims to be one of the leading constabularies in the UK for using ANPR.

The technology, launched nationally in 2006, is used to detect criminal activity, ranging from motorists with no insurance to stolen cars.

In Kent it records the movements of one million cars a day using 200 hidden cameras in undisclosed locations.

A Liberty spokeswoman said police originally said the system would be used only to identify unlicensed and uninsured drivers.

"Now we see it being used for a myriad of purposes without any public debate," she added.

Motorists without tax, MOT or insurance are most at risk of being stopped on the road due to the system being linked up to the national DVLA database, but vehicles used in criminal activity have also been detected.

As well as the fixed cameras, a team of dedicated mobile ANPR officers travel around the county stopping vehicles that have been flagged up.

But drivers' groups have also criticised the BIG BROTHER: Liberty will support anyone who wants to take legal action against the force over use of images system, claiming everyone is being treated as a potential criminal.

Ian Taylor, Kent spokesman for the Association of British Drivers, said although motorists understand the reasons behind ANPR, keeping details of innocent drivers for so long is unnecessary.

"We know it helps target criminals, we have no argument with that, but why does the system need to look at everyone and then keep their details, often of their faces, for such a long time?" he said.

"Police are treating everyone as a potential criminal, being tagged and tracked wherever they go.

Criticised

"In the past, officers stopped people who had done something wrong, but now everyone is treated as though they are criminals.

"We have concerns about this information and control. How long before we are controlled on when or where we travel?"

This is not the first time Kent Police has come under fire for its use of ANPR.

Last year it emerged that officers had used the technology to monitor protesters during the infamous Climate Camp rally at Kingsnorth in 2008, and that law-abiding citizens were later pulled over for no other reason than that they had attended a demonstration.

Chief Insp Simon Black, head of ANPR at Kent Police, said it was unlikely images of innocent people would ever be viewed.

He said: "Cameras read the number plates on vehicles and do on occasions capture an image of the front seat passengers, but the primary objective of ANPR is to capture the make, model and colour of the vehicle to provide assistance in bringing offenders to justice.

"We retain the information – as required by the Data Information Commissioner in his ruling in January this year – for two years.

"The ANPR system reads about one million number plates a day, but if the vehicles are insured, taxed and have not been used in relation to a criminal offence then it is unlikely the images will ever be viewed.

"Therefore a person's privacy is not compromised."

Last week Kent Police was also criticised for handing out Speedwatch equipment to members of the public.

The force was accused of using 'Big Brother' techniques, allowing residents to monitor the speed of drivers in Canterbury, Whitstable and Herne Bay.

ROW: Union claims that children could criticise lessons

Pupils used 'secret mobiles' to grade teachers' lessons

A SCHOOL gave pupils mobile telephones so they could send criticism of their teachers to more senior members of staff, claims a concerned union member.

Speaking at the annual Association of Teachers and Lecturers conference, teacher John Rivers revealed that children as young as 11 had used the technology to give instant ratings on their teachers' abilities to senior staff, and even during lessons.

He said that about 20 youngsters at the un-named secondary school in Kent were given the phones during what was called a "quality assurance" week.

Mr Rivers, who teaches information and communication technology (ICT) at a different school in the county, said he was contacted for advice by colleagues at the school in question.

He said: "I have no problem generally in asking pupils how they felt about my lesson. It's just I believe there should be clear guidance about how those observations should be conducted and reported."

Mr Rivers said the scheme was part of a drive spearheaded by the Government to make teaching staff more accountable for their style of running a classroom.

The conference was told of similar examples of schoolchildren apparently getting too much power when it comes to the content of lessons, behaviour policies and even the hiring and firing of staff. One example of excessive pupil power was when they interviewed a man and two women teachers for a job, and then picked the one they thought was the most attractive.

Plus a teacher seeking promotion was rejected for not singing the Michael Jackson hit Bad during an interview.

Speaking to reporters after the conference had finished, Mr Rivers said teachers at the Kent school were concerned they had not been forewarned or consulted on the scheme.

He said: "I understand it just happened. Staff were not aware of how it worked and there was a lack of transparency. I suppose staff must feel it's a bit threatening if it's not transparent."

A spokesman for the Department for Children, Schools and Families said it believed pupils should play an active role in their own learning and in the development of their schools. However, both KCC and Medway Council said it was unaware of mobile phones being used in any of its schools to critique teaching staff.

Kent university scientist involved in vital breakthrough with battle against cancer

SLOWLY but surely scientists are edging towards a cure for cancer – and now a Kent medical research team has revealed a new breakthrough in the long battle.

Dr Mark Howard's research at the University of Kent's School of Biosciences has led to the development of a new technique that will deliver cancer treatments direct to certain tumours, and he has now patented the discovery.

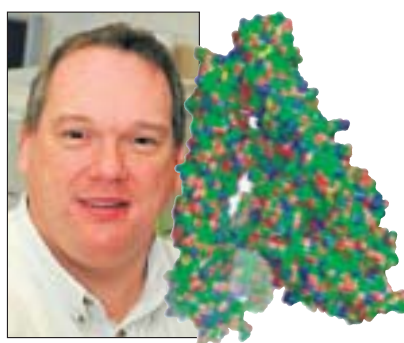

It is primarily aimed at targeting pancreatic cancer – which is currently very difficult to treat – and involves cancer-targeting peptides binding to a complex protein found in high levels on many tumour cells, but absent in most normal tissues.

By seeking out this protein and binding to it the peptides can deliver cancer treatments directly to the site with increased precision and reduced side effects.

And the treatment is so effective it is not going to be years before it's used.

In fact, the American company Aura Biosciences Inc has already licensed the technique from Cancer Research Technology.

Dr Howard's role in this development involved identifying the shape of the peptides.

He said: "These peptides have a particular three-dimensional shape enabling them to specifically target this tumour-associated protein in a more effective way than ever observed before.

"We were able to model different peptide shapes and see a clear link between shape and effectiveness."

Dr Howard, a member of the school's Protein Science Research Group, added that the technology has potential within tumour imaging and therapy for efficient identification and eradication of cancers.

The senior lecturer joined the School of Biosciences in 2001 and his research interests include the structural and dynamic characterisation of bio-chemically relevant molecules, enhanced structural stability in proteins and peptides, as well as advancing nuclear magnetic resonance spectroscopy.

Collateral damage when treating cancer cells has long been a major problem.

But Dr Phil L'Huillier, director of business management at CRT, said: "These peptides have the potential to seek out and destroy cancer cells, leaving the surrounding areas unharmed.

"We believe this technology could have particular strengths in delivering treatments for cancers that have limited treatment options, such as pancreatic and head and neck cancer.

"Crucially this targeted treatment could also reduce the side effects that are commonly associated with standard therapies.

"We look forward to the results of this programme with great interest."

Homework giving parents' headache

PARENTS asked to help with school homework are feeling the pressure as they struggle to support their child's learning, a new report has revealed.

Almost 80 per cent in the South East admitted to not understanding the curriculum, with 50 per cent of youngsters confessing to feeling confused when their parents try to help.

The report 'I'm stuck – can you help me?' – commissioned by the Government agency Becta aims to provide parents in Kent with information to show them how to support their children.

Schools are also being encouraged to set up websites and learning platforms to equip confused parents with the resources they need to help with homework.

Neil McLean, executive director of Becta, said using technology in this way is extremely beneficial to a child's learning.

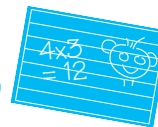

"Schools benefit from from parents' involvement and if children feel they are getting the right support from the schools and families, this has a positive effect on their grades," he said.

The report revealed 81 per cent of parents in the region are asked for help with homework by their children at least once a week. And one in ten parents confessed they felt unable to support their child, which was having a profound emotional effect.

Becta is pushing for schools to get involved in its Next Generation Learning programme, which urges education officials to use technology to link parents with their child's curriculum.

There are already a number of schools in Kent leading the way using ICT to improve links between work at school and at home.

Students achieve hair-raising styles

FASHION-conscious students hit the catwalk at a hair stylists' event at MidKent College.

More than 50 level three hair design students exhibited their handiwork on more than 100 models, following four themes laid out in the International Trend Vision set by hair product giant Wella.

Lecturer in hair design at the college's Medway Campus, Teresa Daly, said: "Students were asked to consider themes of Intersexion, Virtual Life, Utopia and De-lush, each of which is distinct in terms of style, texture and colour."

"Most students worked with two models to produce a hair-up style and a cut-and-colour for display. They coped very well with the pressure and produced some highly creative designs."

"The standard of work produced for this year's event has been stunning."

Student stylist Amy Allen, 19, of Walderslade, was proud of the work she had produced.

The part-time stylist at Shumi salon in West Malling, who is pictured above with her models, said: "Preparing for the show was stressful, but I'm really proud of the looks I've achieved."

The event raised money for Help for Heroes and Cancer Research UK.

Taskforce aims to give kids help they need to stay safe

■ BY MATHEW BEECH

TWO Medway junior school pupils travelled to London for the launch of a nationwide safety scheme.

Dylan Britcher and Phoebe Ford from Twydall Junior School visited the Department for Children, Schools and Families last month.

At the event, the Minister of State for Schools and Learners Vernon Coaker announced the appointment of the Kids Taskforce to lead the safety campaign, with a budget of £750,000.

The scheme creates personal safety programmes for each pupil, teaching them how to minimise risks and lead safer lives.

It aims to reach every child in England with important safety messages using a website and personal workbooks.

Twydall Junior School is the first in Medway to adopt the missdorothy.com programme, which it launched in January at a special assembly attended by police, firefighters and Gillingham FC captain Barry Fuller.

The funding that has been made available will ensure that all Medway primary schools have free access to the programme.

Dylan, nine, and ten-year-old Phoebe represented Twydall Junior school at the ceremony and thanked minister Vernon Coaker.

Dylan said: "Missdorothy.com lessons are great fun and help us to learn how to stay safe and ask for help, like if we're being bullied and don't know what to do."

Phoebe added: "It's really good if you're in a tricky situation and need help."

SAFETY MESSAGE: Dylan Britcher, 9, and Phoebe Ford, 10, of Twydall Junior School, with Kids Taskforce founders Sharon Doughty and Neil Evans, Wizard the dog, minister Vernon Coaker and, far left, Jimmy Mizen's brother George

This is the first time the Government has supported a national primary school safety scheme, following the support it has given to the secondary school initiative Watch Over Me, which was launched in 2009.

The Kids Taskforce safety campaign was created in 2007 backed by the then police minister in the Home Office, Vernon Coaker.

At the time, Mr Coaker said: "Educating children from an earlier age about the importance of staying safe will mean we give them the advice and information they need to form their own opinions on the issue, rather than being swayed by peer pressure."

"This approach enables us to help steer young people on a path to success and to prevent them falling into a downward spiral of anti-social behaviour, crime and violence.

"The missdorothy.com materials will help teachers start open discussions about safety in primary schools, and will help them give children the advice and support they need in this sensitive area."

"The additional investment from Government will mean 167,000 more children will benefit from this invaluable resource."

Also at the launch were the family of 16-year-old Jimmy Mizen, who was murdered in an attack in a bakery in London. They are all supporting the campaign.

I'm speechless after parking awards jolly

Could you just imagine how proud you would be, standing up in front of hundreds of people, some of them TV celebrities?

Having your name called out for everyone to hear, slowly walking towards the stage with your name in glittering lights and everyone clapping?

You continue to walk with your head held high as you reach the stage to collect your trophy. You take hold of it – and then it suddenly hits you: 'How on earth did I win this?'

Well, spare a thought for Medway Council as it has been left dumbfounded after winning an award for Best On-Street Parking Team 2010.

In what can only be described as the world's worst awards concept ever, the giant venue housed council members from all over the country.

I wonder who was actually working while this lot were on their paid-for jolly? Anyway, Medway Council accidentally won the first place prize by completing the wrong information for the judges.

Medway must have accidentally told judges that residents here were happy and contented, and were very happy with the complaints procedure.

The Creative Parking Solution On-Street Team of the Year award is open to all local authorities and private operators managing on-street parking operations.

Eligible teams include those involved in kerbside parking management, residential and business permit schemes, CCTV enforcement, school parking etc.

The judges are looking for demonstrable success in delivering any or all of the following criteria: outstanding customer service, consistent application of good practice and examples of doing the extra things that makes for outstanding performance.

So tell us, who exactly did the judges ask? How many residents of Medway agreed that staff and CCTV operators have always been very helpful?

How many residents confirmed they were more than happy with the service they had received just after being hit with a fine?

Why the General Election should be the most exciting thing you'll do all year

ONLY three weeks and you forget all this General Election nonsense, eh?

Only three weeks and we can sit back and let our democratically-elected MPs run the country for another five years. Only another three weeks and your voice will no longer be heard...

In France 250 years ago philosopher Jean-Jacques Rousseau wrote: "The English people believes itself to be free; it is gravely mistaken; it is free only during election of members of parliament; as soon as the members are elected, the people is enslaved."

Okay, JJ could go a little over the top and, yes, it might have lost something in translation, but perhaps he has a point. Love 'em or loathe 'em, New Labour, who swept to victory in 1997, has changed this country.

On the plus side, we have shorter waiting times for operations; full-time workers are guaranteed 24 days' paid holiday; Scots and Welsh have their own assemblies; there are 85,000 more nurses and 32,000 more doctors (and who knows how many more in pen-pushing admin staff). You get the idea, the former Blair wannabe MPs have done some good things.

On the flip side, Mr B Liar did take us into a war for reasons we probably weren't too clear about. And there has been an explosion in made-up jobs in the public sector, like nappy advisers for new mums (£25,000 a year; see Guardian jobs), five-a-day co-ordinators (same salary, same jobs section) to tell us what to eat to stay healthy. We're in a bit of debt too, and while the financial collapse was worldwide, we in Britain are worse off because Labour gave bankers far too much freedom and we will be paying for that cock-up for 40 years.

Immigration is a massive issue for this once-tolerant nation. In Labour's diversity-aware Britain we have an organisation for every group, be it ethnic, transgendered, gay, single parent etc.

However, while there is a black chief police officers' association the same thing couldn't exist for Caucasian cops. But as the flood of refugees, n'er-dowells, criminals and economic migrants have invaded Britain over the past decade, few dare discuss it for fear of being branded a BNP supporter or racist.

That surely is the legacy of Blair's Britain. We are watched by more CCTV cameras than any other nation, and the vital need for a voice to be given to all minorities has resulted in the majority thinking it's best to stay quiet.

If you own a guest house and suggest you are not happy letting a gay couple stay there, you'll get a visit from your not-so-friendly neighbourhood cop.

A pet shop owner who sold a goldfish to a boy aged 14, ends up tagged, fined and with a criminal record. That's Britain under Labour.

Jean-Jacques probably had it right. So enjoy the next three weeks, it's our big chance to get the government we deserve. But will we take it?

above average results, including the SEN intake.

St John's is an important feeder school for Balfour Junior and has links with other well managed nursery schools nearby.

The excuses for closing St John's include that it does not have a nursery available on site and that it is supposedly not viable.

However, it is not a requirement in any current government guidelines that there has to be a nursery.

It raises the question – of a school that has certainly been paid for over the last 146 years by taxpayers – how is it not viable?

Too many employees at the council, perhaps? Further plundering and quick sale of another public asset?

The repercussions for closure are many and Balfour Junior will lose a fourth form from the St John's feed. This immediately impacts current families looking to maintain consistency and togetherness of their children attending these schools.

This in the short term would divide families in the schools they are able to attend.

This is contrary to the 'every child matters' policy which has been cast aside in the proposed splitting up of students from family, friends and their known safe environment provided at St John's.

Parents and children are expected to absorb the changeover expenses such as uniforms, which in light of the sluggish economic climate is poorly timed and with no offer of assistance. The council has typically not consulted properly with any interested party prior to the proposal being thrust in place. It is not only good manners to do so, it is a given right expected by any Englishman. The council has not acted in the caring or professional manner expected when dealing with these children's future and indeed the fate of a historic school, that once closed is terminated for ever.

Certainly change is always a necessary part of life. However the reasons to keep St John's open versus the soft, dubious excuses to close it speak for themselves.

Only by the just and sheer determination of the 'say no to closing St John's Infant School' Facebook parents group headed by Sam Whittington and the good Lord's common sense St John's may be saved from the red tape and the faceless suits that lurk in the council.

I spy trouble unless rules are made clear

I was very interested in reports about the CCTV spy-car, as I live in Holmside, Gillingham, and it has been in our road over the last few weeks taking pictures of residents and non-residents parking near the island at the top end of Holmside, near Watling Street.

I have received two penalty charge notices (PCNs) so far and so have most of my neighbours, which we are not going to pay.

We have lived in this road for more than ten years and never had these PCNs issued before.

Apparently you are 'double parking' if you park on or near the island in Holmside.

This island and the surrounding area is always being used by residents to park due to the fact that there is insufficient space – night or day.

This is due to the shops, doctors, other people using Holmside to park because their roads are also too busy (Malvern Road, for example) and people who work in businesses on Watling Street.

There are no signs that state parking is not allowed in this area and there are no double yellow lines. This area has always been used as extra parking space and only yesterday a police vehicle parked there, too. I have photographic evidence of this.

I have received confirmation they will not cancel the two PCN charges issued to me, so have decided to start a petition in Holmside which I will return for further confirmation that we will not be paying the PCNs issued.

Every one of my neighbours I have spoken to confirmed they will not pay.

They need to put signs up stating the exact parking restrictions and cancel all PCNs issued to date and start afresh knowing that all residents and non-residents know exactly where they can or cannot park.

• As a resident and frequent driver in Medway, I am surprised by the ignorance of the majority of law-abiding citizens.

The majority of drivers are fed up with the obnoxious minority who believe it is their God-given right to drive how they like, after drinking as much as they like, and park where they like, with no regard for anyone else's safety or use of the roads.

We welcome more enforcement, and although we wish it was the police who could take a mature decision, a CCTV van is the next best thing.

If they are sat outside a house it's probably because they have evidence that someone is consistently breaking the law, as they won't waste their time when they could be catching other offenders.

Having been hit by an uninsured, disqualified, drunk driver (luckily it was my car, not a child) I welcome more enforcement, and can't wait for it to be proved a success and rolled out across Kent.

Remember: all the people caught have broken the law that is there for the benefit and safety of us all.

Avoid DIY dangers

As the change of seasons inspires many to turn to that ever-growing list of DIY jobs, the message from Kent Fire and Rescue is: Do It Safely.

DIY can increase the risk of fire and injury in the home. From fires ignited by blow-torches to fires caused by faulty appliances and equipment which may have been stored in a damp garage or shed.

Always check the task is within your capabilities and take expert advice, which, along with safety leaflets, can be obtained from many DIY stores. For many, DIY is a pleasant pastime, but often people make mistakes when they rush jobs or are tired. By following a few simple rules, accidents, fires and tragedies can be avoided.

While you carry out DIY, it is a good time to fit smoke alarms in your home, to provide early warning should a fire break out. If you already have smoke alarms, make sure you do not paint over them, take time to check they are clear of dust and that the batteries are working. Remember batteries should be changed yearly too, unless they are ten-year alarms.

School standards 'will be hit' by cuts

A CHILDREN'S services union has warned of a potential drop in achievement in Kent schools if "deep funding cuts" are not properly considered.

It follows an announcement in February by Kent County Council that some 260 jobs could be slashed from its department for children, families and education in a bid to save £8million.

At the time Cllr Sarah Hohler – cabinet member for the department – insisted frontline services would not be affected, but professional schools improvement staff now believe performance levels will be hit.

Children's services union Aspect, said the restructuring would mean cuts in services that offer professional support to schools.

Restructuring within the department would see seven per cent of jobs lost. In secondary schools improvement teams, however, there could be a 50 per cent reduction in staffing, with no current indication of redeployment in other areas, according to Aspect.

Union officials and school workers argued the plans were developed with little or no consultation with key stakeholders.

But Rosalind Turner, managing director for children, families and education at KCC, said: "We are not yet half way through the consultation and we are interested in any additional proposals to deliver the required efficiencies."

She added that despite the possible changes, a high degree of support for schools would be maintained.

"Our strategy is to reduce management and administration as much as possible, and to protect direct services to children, young people and families," she said.

Drugs, weapons and cigs all stopped at the border

■ BY STEVE KNIGHT

BORDER control officers based across Kent helped seize more than £237 million worth of illegal drugs in just one year.

They also helped prevent 27,000 dangerous weapons from reaching the streets as well as 557 million smuggled cigarettes representing a loss in tax revenue of £109 million.

Launched on April 1, 2009, the UK Border Agency was formed when customs and immigration officers joined forces as one single organisation. It is based in Dover and is also represented at the French ports of Calais, Coquelles, Dunkirk and Boulogne.

Regional director Tony Smith said: "The public expects us to keep the UK border safe and secure at all times because drugs, illegal immigration and contraband damage communities and businesses. That's why we have a strong new force at the border with combined customs and immigration powers, which works 24 hours a day to stop illegal immigrants and smugglers."

During the past year more than a million freight vehicles have been searched at British border controls in northern France and Belgium, with 29,000 illegal attempts to cross the Channel thwarted.

Notable successes include the seizure of £3.7m of drugs from just one lorry – which was

STOPPED: Tobacco and an avocado stuffed with cocaine were seized by UK Border Agency officials at Dover loaded with oil drums packed with heroin, amphetamine, ecstasy and cannabis – as well as the discovery of 5kg of cocaine hidden in a car bumper and 1.2 tonnes of hand-rolling tobacco concealed in a cargo of boilers.

The agency also carries out intelligence-led operations to catch illegal workers and other immigration offenders.

Where companies are found using illegal workers they face a fine of up to £10,000 per employee. Examples include the arrest of six onion farmers from Iraq and Palestine who were caught working at a farm in north Kent, and a £30,000 fine for the Hands On Car Wash firm in Ashford, Tenterden and Folkestone that was found to be employing illegal immigrants.

Large companies have also been caught out as well, such as the Whitstable branch of Domino's Pizza that was fined £10,000 for giving work to an illegal Indian and Kosovan.

Mr Smith added: "We are dedicated to stopping drugs getting onto our streets, removing illegal migrants and locking up or deporting the most serious criminals."

"We will continue to crack down on foreign nationals who don't play by the rules, and the people and organisations behind them."

Magic night with a comedy legend

JUS' LIKE THAT

Wednesday, April 28
Central Theatre, Chatham.

SPEND an evening remembering a comedy legend with a fond tribute to Tommy Cooper.

Jus' Like That! – A Night Out With Tommy Cooper gives both established fans and younger audiences the chance to hear his best gags performed live once again, as Clive Mantle stars in this hilarious and fascinating show.

Even though Cooper died on stage 26 years ago, he is still widely regarded as one of the UK's most popular comedians of all time and continues to command great affection and respect.

A huge fan of Cooper, Mantle is delighted to be donning the famous fez and delivering the comedian's timeless one-liners.

He trained with magician Geoffrey Durham, also known as the Great Sorprendo, to master Cooper's deceptively clever tricks and perfect the shambolic act that endeared Cooper to so many people.

Written by John Fisher, who worked with Cooper for many years, the show not only celebrates his remarkable talent but also explores the darker side of Cooper's life. But the show is designed to celebrate the memory of a very human but very gifted performer, and fans of all ages will enjoy the uproariously funny production.

While serving during World War II, Cooper performed in a NAAFI entertainment party and hit on the idea of performing magic tricks with accompanying jokes. Although he went on to perfect a magic act that went wrong for comic effect, he was actually a very competent magician and a member of the Magic Circle.

He entered show business in the mid-1940s and took his act around variety theatres, including London's famous Windmill Theatre. Cooper had already noted that his failed tricks were even more popular with audiences than his successful ones, but he would continue to occasionally pull off a spectacular trick to surprise his fans.

After making his television debut in a BBC talent show in 1948, Cooper landed his own series and became one of the country's best-loved comedians.

However, his heavy drinking and smoking habits took a toll on his health and contributed to a decline in his television work.

Cooper's drinking also affected his personal life, leading to accusations of wife-beating and infidelity, and this show does shine a light into the darker corners of Cooper's life.

But the production also celebrates the remarkable talent and warmth of this iconic performer, who suffered a heart attack in front of a live television audience in 1984.

At first his collapse was assumed to be part of the act, but he had become seriously ill and died that evening.

Clive Mantle will be familiar to viewers from his roles in Casualty, Holby City and The Vicar of Dibley. As a lifelong fan of Cooper, he will be fulfilling a cherished dream by stepping into the comic's shoes and bringing this unforgettable performer back to the stage.

During the rehearsal process, Mantle had the chance to try on Cooper's favourite fez, which was a truly magical moment for the actor.

Whether you are a long-term fan of the comedian or discovering Cooper's talent for the first time, this hilarious and enlightening show should not be missed. It starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £18/£16.50. To book, call the box office on 01634 338338 or visit the website at www.thecentraltheatre.co.uk.

Jus' Like That! – A Night Out With Tommy Cooper can also be seen at the Assembly Hall Theatre in Tunbridge Wells at 8.30pm on Monday. Tickets cost £18.50/£15.50. Book online at www.assemblyhalltheatre.co.uk or call the box office on 01892 530613/532072.

THE CORPSE IN THE CRYPT

Friday, April 16, Rochester Cathedral

THE peace of religious life is shattered by a horrific murder in the crime mystery, The Corpse in the Crypt.

In the new murder mystery from Pyramid Puzzles, the dreadful death interrupts the calm atmosphere at the Benedictine Priory of St Andrew. Set in the medieval period, this gripping story is played out in the beautiful setting of Rochester Cathedral by Alternate Shadows Theatre Group.

During Vespers, Brother Alwyn is reading from the Book of Hours to his fellow monks when a shocking event occurs. At first they do not see a monk come staggering into the chapel, gripped by his death throes. The only clue is the human bone clutched in his lifeless hand.

When Barnabus, Sheriff of Rochester, asks his friend Brother Alwyn for help, they set out on an exciting search for the cold-blooded murderer.

The fund-raising performance starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £6, including free interval drinks. To book call 01634 810074.

For details email development@rochestercathedral.org.

HARVEY ANDREWS

Thursday, April 22, Brook Theatre, Chatham

ENTER the highly entertaining world of Harvey Andrews, a master of musical storytelling.

Artists such as Mary Hopkin and Christy Moore have covered his songs, while folk stars like Martin Carthy, Ralph McTell, Richard Thompson, Danny Thompson and Dave Pegg have played on his own recordings.

He has performed as far afield as Canada, the United States, Newfoundland and Ascension Island, winning International Artist of the Year in the Canadian Porcupine Awards for Folk Music.

Andrews has appeared on more than 50 television shows, including the Old Grey Whistle Test and Rhythm on Two, and has made his own TV contribution by writing and singing the theme songs for Golden Pennies and The Haunted School. He also sang the theme tune for the British film, Psychomania.

Andrews' lyrics were used in coursework for the national GCSE English language exam.

The concert starts at 8pm and tickets cost £10 or £9 for mailing list members.

Book online at www.whatson-medway.co.uk or call the box office on 01634 338338.

THE COMEDY CLUB

Friday, April 16, Priestfield Stadium, Gillingham

THREE top comedians will be aiming to hit the target with their hilarious gags at The Comedy Club.

Gillingham Football Club hosts an evening of laughter at this opening show, with another due on August 13.

Audience members will have the chance to submit their own gags to the joke competition during the interval and could win big prizes.

Irish life coach Pdraig Hyland reveals his unique take on life and acts as MC for the evening, welcoming fans and making sure the show goes smoothly. Renowned for his warmth, Hyland will be offering a few life lessons in his own amusing style.

Award-winning funnyman Gerry K aims to score a few comedy goals with his fresh, observational comedy, presented with energy and charisma.

Headline act Nick Wilty is known as the 'Globetrotting Comedian', due to the fact that he has performed on every continent except Antarctica. His accolades include Best International Act, awarded in San Francisco.

The over-18s show starts at 8pm and tickets cost £15 for the comedy only, or £22 to include a basket meal. To book call 01634 300000 or visit www.haha-heehee.com.

HORRIBLE SCIENCE

Tuesday, April 20 to Saturday, April 24, Orchard Theatre, Dartford

BRACE yourself for a truly disgusting experience with the fun and educational Horrible Science.

By picking out all the most gruesome and stomach-churning aspects of the subject, Birmingham Stage Company takes the audience on a fascinating and grisly journey through the world of science.

Suitable for children aged six above, this show will captivate all the family as it asks such important questions as why do we produce 50,000 litres of spit in our lifetimes? Can you kill deadly diseases using just orange juice?

Guiding the audience through the Bathroom of Doom and Toothbrush of Terror is Billy Miller, a cheeky 10-year-old who ends up doing battle with the many dangers of Horrible Science World.

Join him as he discovers the fatal forces of gravity and magnetism and learns more about how microbes cause nasty diseases.

The show covers much of the Key Stage 2 science curriculum in a fun and exciting way that will enthrall both science lovers and newcomers to the subject.

Tickets cost £14/£11 or £44 for families of four. To book call 01322 220000 or visit www.orchardtheatre.co.uk.

KENT YOUTH CHOIRS

Saturday, April 17, St Matthew's Church, Wigmore

ENJOY the sound of sweet music from talented young singers when Kent Youth Choirs perform this weekend.

Some of the county's most promising young performers will demonstrate their uplifting talent at their annual concert on Saturday.

Kent County Junior Choir features children aged from 11 to 14, while the Kent County Junior Singers is made up of youngsters aged from eight to 13.

With their colourful T-shirts and enthusiastic love of performance, the Kent County Junior Singers are often dubbed 'the Smarties' and are guaranteed to put a smile on the faces of any audience. They have travelled to Holland and Germany, along with performances in the Gillingham, Rochester and Medway festivals and an appearance at the Schools' Prom, held at London's Royal Albert Hall.

Kent County Junior Choir has also taken its talent abroad, performing in France and Belgium. They also made an appearance at the National Festival for Youth at the Royal Festival Hall.

The concert starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £6/£4 on the door. To find out more about the choirs call Kent Music on 01622 691212 or visit www.kent-music.com.

WIN a DVD of comedy football movie The Shouting Men

THE Shouting Men brings the magic of the FA Cup to the small screen with the uproarious misadventures of a group of misfit Gillingham FC supporters during a cross-country "away day" weekend to watch their beloved team play in the quarter finals of the FA Cup against Newcastle United.

The Shouting Men stars Matt Daniel-Baker and Warren Llabias, Dudley Sutton and Craig Fairbrass, with cameo appearances come from John Barnes and Peter Beardsley.

The Gillingham fans are brought together by football in the way that only football can do and the movie perfectly captures the hilarious banter of footie fans. If you're fed up with football films always being about football violence this is one for you. Full of genuine laugh-out-loud moments, the film is a welcome and very funny look at the lighter side of the beautiful game – a real comedy for real football fans.

The Shouting Men (cert. 15) is out on DVD this week but you can win a copy of the DVD in our great competition.

To enter, simply answer the question below and send your entry on a postcard along with your email address (if applicable), name, address, and daytime telephone number to The Shouting Men Competition, KOS Media, Apple Barn, Smeeth, Ashford, Kent TN25 6SR. The closing date is April 30, 2010.

Question: Fans of which football team describe themselves as The Shouting Men?

No purchase necessary. For our full Terms and Conditions please visit www.kent-news.co.uk, or for a posted copy of the T&Cs call 01303 817073.

If you do not wish to receive any literature please write 'no literature' on your entry.

More teenage angst for Page as she takes up roller derby

■ BY DAMON SMITH

YOUTH springs eternal for Ellen Page.

Oscar-nominated for her role as a pregnant 16-year-old in Juno, the 23-year-old Canadian actress has forged a career playing dysfunctional and pithy teenagers.

There are more growing pains in Whip It!, the auspicious directorial debut of Drew Barrymore based on the novel Derby Girl by Shauna Cross.

Set in the cut-throat world of women's roller derby, this unabashedly entertaining tale of female empowerment puts a traditional coming-of-age story on four wheels and celebrates the sisterly solidarity within a low-ranked team as its feisty members body-check their way up the league.

Novelist Cross lovingly adapts her book for the screen and she retains all of the humour and the pathos, keeping the tone relatively light to hold the interest of teenage audiences who will appreciate the heroine's struggle for independence and the hip soundtrack laden with Kaiser Chiefs, MGMT, The Breeders, Peaches and The Raveonettes.

Hormonal teenager Bliss Cavendar (Page) lives in sleepy Bodeen, Texas, where she is at the mercy of her beauty pageant-obsessed mom, Brooke (Marcia Gay Harden).

Ungainly and unfeminine, Bliss stands little chance of winning the Miss Blue Bonnet Pageant, which Brooke is convinced will be her daughter's ticket to fame and fortune.

While shopping with Brooke and sister Shania, Bliss sees a flyer for roller derby trials and she secretly attends the tryout in Austin for league underdogs, the Hurl Scouts.

Maggie Mayhem and Smashley Simpson (played by Drew Barrymore) take Bliss under their wing and with their encouragement, the plucky teen discovers her calling as her alter ego, Babe Ruthless.

The introduction of the ballsy new member to the Hurl Scouts catalyses a dramatic change in fortunes, setting up the inevitable championship showdown with Iron Maven and her brutal posse.

Meanwhile, Bliss drifts apart from best friend Pash and embarks on a romance with musician Oliver.

Whip It! follows in the skating tracks of countless other portraits of teen angst, but Barrymore invests her first feature with energy and a tasteful, underwater sex scene.

mother runs the gamut of laughter and tears.

There are tender scenes too between Bliss and her father Earl, who confides: "I like smart girls. That's why I married your mother... and knocked her up."

The cast appear to do many of their own stunts on the roller derby rink. Every time they get knocked down, we cheer them to get back up again.

NEW TEAM: Matt Smith as the Doctor with Karen Gillan as assistant Amy Pond

YOUR TV REVIEW DR WHO: BBC 1, 6.35pm, Saturday

■ BY TOM BETTS

OVER Easter we got our first real taste of the latest incarnation of one of TV's most loved characters, and it was an encouraging beginning.

Matt Smith has got off to a great start as the new Doctor.

His portrayal of the character is closer in essence to Tom Baker than David Tennant, adding a little more humour, mystery and quirkiness to the mix than his predecessor.

Tennant was right to leave when he did – his tenure had run out of steam and he looked more than ready to move on.

The man's a fine actor, but lacked the oddness that makes a truly great Doctor – although I know millions would disagree.

Russell T Davies, the main mover behind the total regeneration of the character and show has also left, although he must take much of the credit for reviving a genuine TV gem.

It was time for both to let some new ideas come through, however.

If I had seen another episode where the plot was resolved by someone pushing a button or the use of a sonic screwdriver, then I may have been lost as a fan forever.

Episode one in the new series, The Eleventh Hour, was the strongest I've seen in a long time, and new assistant Amy Pond (Karen Gillan) looks the perfect companion for Smith's scattier, more irreverent Time Lord.

She's a bit more strait-laced than Billie Piper's Rose Tyler, and it's good to see a lot of thought has gone into the assistant's role again.

It's often that character, and their chemistry with the title character, that makes or breaks the series.

One backward step that seems to have been taken is with the special effects, which have certainly not been as good so far.

But this is Doctor Who, and while we may not be going back to the era of monsters made out of bubblewrap, the focus must be on the story.

The Daleks and Cybermen will return but the show has been at its strongest when new foes, such as the Judoon and the Slitheen, were introduced, so let's hope for more original baddies with an appetite for destruction.

The onus now is on Steven Moffat, who in recent years has written many of the best episodes, to take the character somewhere new in space and time.

It's an exciting time to be a geek.

MOTORS NEWS

Green sportster shows promise ahead of rivals

IT could be that despite the green credentials of petrol-electric hybrids, their best deployment might be the sporting sector.

The instant pulling power of the electric motors can give the performance edge needed for the adrenalin rush would-be buyers crave.

Honda is first to the market with a green sportster, the CR-Z, due in June and priced from a not unreasonable £17,000. It also promises to be an exciting drive, particularly as the first hybrid on sale in the UK with a manual gearbox.

KITT beats the 'Gene Genie' to TV favourite

TWO TV motoring icons and their TV series are back onscreen – Gene Hunt's Audi Quattro (Ashes to Ashes) and KITT (Knight Rider).

Both also appear in a Kwik-Fit poll to find the public's top 10 TV cars.

KITT was top, followed by: 2) Insp Morse's Jaguar MkII, 3) Ferrari Testarossa from Miami Vice, 4) Magnum PI's Ferrari 308, 5) Batmobile, 6) Gene Hunt's Quattro (pictured), 7) Lady Penelope's Rolls, 8) Dukes of Hazzard's General Lee, 9) The Saint's Volvo and 10) A-Team's GMC van.

Jaguar just purrs along during economic gloom

JAGUAR is making light of the sluggish UK economy – it doubled sales of its sleek XF executive car in March against March 2009.

Sales of all Jaguars are also more than one per cent up for the month, not bad when it was effectively a two-model brand – the junior X-Type model was axed in late 2009, and the all-new XJ is not on sale until May. The surge has been helped by the improved diesel power of the XF (£29,900) complementing the car's sports saloon lines.

MUCH BETTER BY DESIGN: Citroën improved their C3 supermini this year by giving it a classier look and a larger car feel plus an eye-catching Zenith panoramic front screen

Citroën C3 targeting a more discerning small car market

CITROËN launched a vastly improved C3 supermini model earlier this year.

Despite a cuddly, egg-shaped design evoking the brand's classic 2CV, I thought the previous car pretty average.

However, friendly imagery and occasionally bonkers discounting helped blind motoring Francophiles to the car's cramped cabin, sloppy driving characteristics and poor build.

But Citroën must have seen that would-be downsizers and generally more discerning consumers would not be so short-sighted this time.

So the new car (from £10,790) looks and feels much classier and able to deliver a larger car feel for those who really are trading a family hatchback or something bigger in favour of this little five-door supermini.

We tested the car via Wilmoths Citroën at Maidstone where general sales manager Kelvin Clayton was quick to defend the old car yet promote its successor:

"You've got to remember that the original C3 came out seven years ago and things have moved fast in the industry and at Citroën, but it has been a good seller for us and will continue to offer value as a used buy. The new car takes us to a new level and we expect to do well with it."

ue to offer value as a used buy. The new car takes us to a new level and we expect to do well with it."

The test car was an upmarket 1.4 Exclusive with a lively 95bhp VTi 16v petrol engine (£14,090), with interior chroming, leather trimming and auto climate and cruise controls.

But it also had the eye-catching Zenith panoramic front screen – the new C3's trademark. This is standard on all but the VT entry model and comes with a neat pull-down interior 'roof' and sun visors.

It's a stylish luxury touch to the C3 range and defines its more upmarket stance this time.

There is little disappointment on the move either, with a better balance of ride comfort and handling than before and the 1.4 engine is well-suited to the car, though there are 1.1 and 1.6-litre petrol alternatives plus 1.4 and 1.6 diesels.

My only criticism on the test was a slightly sloppy gearshift, which may irritate keen drivers. But there is so much more to like about this smarter and swisher C3.

It should be cheap to run too, with a range of frugal low emission engines plus a miserly ultra-eco Airdream version from £14,490.

Preventing terrible loss getting worse

Steve Osborne, The Mortgage Man, shares his knowledge with you in this fortnightly column

AS THE size of the average mortgage increases, so too does the need to protect your partner and your family against being left with a huge debt should the worst happen.

The death of the main breadwinner is bad enough without the added problem of where to find a four-figure mortgage payment each month. There are a number of ways in which you can protect yourself and your home, and I am being asked for advice from more and more clients who want to make sure they won't have to worry about losing their home as well as a loved one.

Term assurance is probably the simplest type of protection and often the cheapest. It simply pays out if the insured person dies and can either be on a level or a decreasing basis depending on the reason for the cover.

Critical illness cover is similar way but has the added benefit of paying out if the policy holder contracts one of a specified list of critical illnesses. These vary between companies, so make sure you compare not just the cost but the cover provided.

Family income benefit is a term assurance policy, with or without critical illness cover, that differs by paying out a monthly income for a set period rather than a lump sum.

This is often cheaper than a lump sum policy and it does away with the worry of having to invest a large sum of money at a time when the surviving family has more important concerns.

Permanent health insurance pays out a monthly income if you are unable to work due to accident or sickness. This is a long-term plan designed to continue to your retirement date or until you return to work and should not be confused with the short term accident, sickness and unemployment plans that have had so much bad press.

Make sure you get good independent advice and remember that if a life assurance policy is set up incorrectly you could end up with a big inheritance tax bill rather than the money going where you intended it to.

Ombudsman's demand for lettings protection

Landlords and tenants would benefit from closure of legislative loopholes, says report

■ BY NICK AMES

THE Property Ombudsman is demanding that whichever party wins General Election urgently legislates to improve protection for both landlords and tenants who employ letting agents.

The call has been echoed by many across the property field who say action needs to be taken as soon as possible.

In his annual report, Ombudsman Christopher Hamer urges swift action because of the increasing activity in the lettings market during the downturn.

According to his report, the fact that letting agents were not covered by the provisions of the Consumers, Estate Agents and Redress Act is an "alarming inconsistency".

Mr Hamer also recommends that landlords and tenants only use agents who are members of a recognised trade association or any agent who is a member of the Property Ombudsman scheme. LetAssured UK is one company active in this area.

"LetAssured UK has been specifically set up by landlords to protect themselves and other like-minded landlords from the unscrupulous activities of some letting agents," said managing director David Plaister.

"Landlords from across the UK have been joining with us in a move away from the traditional agents who have been rubbing their hands and watching the fees roll in."

The proportion of the Ombudsman's workload related to lettings disputes rose from 28 per cent to 49 per cent of his workload last year. LetAssured UK said it guarantees landlords and tenants peace of mind in knowing that they are dealing with a firm which meets defined standards of customer service and has the necessary insurance to protect their clients' money, plus a customer complaints procedure offering independent redress.

"LetAssured underpins the entire administrative procedure of renting property on behalf of the landlord, and he is safe in the knowledge there will be no hidden costs," said Mr Plaister.

FLOOD OF COMPLAINTS: Whoever wins the election will need to address inconsistencies in lettings legislation

Springing into action can increase chance of a sale

CONNELLS offices in Kent are enjoying one of their busiest periods since the start of the year and say the upward trend looks set to continue.

Staff say more properties are coming on the market and business is looking good.

"Our branches have had a busy few weeks with more properties coming on the market as people are encouraged by lower interest rates and the start of spring.

"Demand is continuing to outstrip supply and because of the lack of stock there are more people chasing the same property, which is driving prices up in some areas," said Connells regional managing director, Kevin Peel.

"Houses continue to sell as long as vendors are realistic in their expectations and their estate agent is prepared to work hard on their behalf, using every opportunity to bring a property to the attention of as many buyers as possible."

Mr Peel said buyers could help by following a few simple tips: "First impressions count, so make sure your property has 'kerb appeal'. Paint the front door, tidy the garden and put up hanging baskets," he said.

"Make sure the home is clean, tidy and de-cluttered. Buyers are trying to picture themselves in your home, so get rid of junk and minimise personal possessions such as photos. Throw out anything that has been broken for a year or more. If you haven't mended it by now, chances are you never will."

Spring flowers in bloom make gardens particularly attractive, and spring cleaning adds to homes looking good, both inside and out, he added.

Association upset by new legislation

LANDLORDS' "worst fears" have been realised with new legislation covering houses in multiple occupation, it has been claimed by one of the bodies representing them.

The laws will see landlords required to gain planning permission if they purchase a property designed to be rented to three or more unrelated people. Alan Ward, chairman of the Residential Landlords' Association, criticised the legislation on two grounds.

"First, it is totally impractical," he said. "And second, it is social engineering, because planning law has never been about who can live where – it's about the use of the building."

Mr Ward said landlords were unlikely to wait for any administrative delays in planning permission being granted.

His comments come after PropertyEarth.net research indicated three-bedroom houses made up 57 per cent of all property searches by investors. Two-bedroom homes accounted for 21 per cent, and four-bedrooms 15 per cent.

MidKent College

MidKent College is a large and successful College operating on two main campuses serving Medway and Maidstone. Our new, state of the art £86 million Medway Campus is located next to the Royal School of Military Engineering where the College trains soldiers under a very large construction and engineering contract. The College was graded 'good' overall with 'outstanding' Capacity to Improve at its Ofsted inspection in March 2009.

Following the retirement of two of our longest-serving managers, we are seeking to recruit dynamic, progressive and enthusiastic individuals to join our committed leadership team at the Medway Campus.

Head of Faculty Advanced Engineering

Salary: c£46k

Manufacturing and Engineering have benefited from a substantial investment in new equipment and we are now looking to expand training opportunities within this area. In addition to providing effective management of the faculty, the successful candidate will be expected to lead on the development of STEM initiatives including a new Motor Engineering section.

Head of Faculty Higher and Academic Studies

Salary: c£46k

Comprising the A Level, Access and Higher Education curriculum areas, this Faculty is based at both our new Medway Campus and at the nearby University of Kent which accommodates most of the Access and HE provision. The successful candidate will have a strong track record of leading within these curriculum areas and in improving outcomes for students.

Closing date: Thursday 29 April 2010

Interview date: Friday 6 May 2010

Benefits Include:

- Benenden Healthcare • Pension • Generous Annual Leave • Flexible working

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

KOS MEDIA (PUBLISHING) LTD TERMS AND CONDITIONS

- Advertisements will be accepted only on the express condition that the advertiser warrants that the advertisement does not in any way contravene any existing legislation and in particular the Trade and Description Act 1968 and the Consumer Credit Act 1974.
- It is the responsibility of all advertisers to ensure that all advertising meets all forms of government legislation and KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd (the "media owner") takes no responsibility for liability in errors and omissions to the content of our media.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- All rates within the annual advertising agreement will be rate protected for 12 months from the first date of publication under the signed agreement.
- Any unsuitable material posted on any website belonging to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd by the advertiser or any associated third party will be removed or refused. All passwords and security supplied to the advertiser by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd in relation to the use of the posting of material via the media owner's online administration tool will be the responsibility of the advertiser. The advertiser indemnifies KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd against any damages as a result of misuse of these privileges by either the advertiser or any third party given password privileges by the advertiser.
- KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd reserves the right to change passwords intermittently to ensure the overall and ongoing security of its websites within the public domain.
- Copyright and licenses for voice-over/music/photography or film for advertising promotions or otherwise within the various forms of media in print, online and moving film owned by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must have been sought, verified or paid for by the advertiser where applicable. Approval or permissions must have been given by any potential beneficial owner voice-over or music. The advertiser must be able to verify any statements or claims (promotional or otherwise) in relation to their products/services promoted within any of the media offerings belonging to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd.
- Where shrinkage of an advertisement occurs for whatever reason, the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre where it relates to the media owner's printed publications. This will NOT apply to full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd reserves the right to omit or refuse any advertisement/commercial/web content without notice or explanation. In these terms the word "advertiser" shall be construed to include any person or organisation placing an advertisement on behalf of any person.
- A guarantee of insertion cannot be given and the media owners shall not be liable for any loss or damage caused by any error inaccuracy within your marketing content. In no case shall the total liability of the media owner for any error or omission exceed the price charged by the media owners for that advertising.
- No liability is accepted for any loss or damage alleged to have arisen through delay in forwarding replies to Box numbers, however caused, nor for the loss or damage to any artwork supplied.
- Claims for any error or inaccuracy in your media messages with KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must be made in writing to the accounts department within 10 days of publishing.
- KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd accepts no responsibility for any errors or omissions made on their websites by the advertiser.
- KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd has the right to cancel the advertiser's annual membership without notice should the advertiser deliberately publish out of date material or content on any of the media owner's online digital platforms. KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd will seek to recover, in full, all outstanding invoices in relation to the signed annual membership as a result of the advertiser's negligence in this regard and reserves the right to claim damages for any potential vesicular action of advertiser. Should, for any reason, the advertiser not be available at the agreed time without giving sufficient notice (at least 48 hours), KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd reserves the right to charge for any further TV production at its standard published hourly rate should the advertiser still wish to use KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd's production services to complete its TV commercial or photographic imagery included in the advertiser's agreement. The advertiser will approve and accept that there are only two choices of voice-over and music offered by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd. Should an advertiser wish to use other voice-over or non-copyright free music, it is the responsibility of the advertiser to pay the PRS rights should they be required to do so. Any changes to or failure to approve the TV production by the deadlines agreed between both parties will result in KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd being given permission by the advertiser to replace the TV commercial with pictures or stills from a choice of photography supplied by the media owner until the advertiser can supply a TV commercial produced at their own cost and risk outside of this agreement. The advertiser also accepts and agrees that this action would not reduce the value or cost of their membership. Any cost of changes required to the TV commercial throughout the advertiser's agreement will be borne by the advertiser outside of this agreement.
- Each advertiser accepts that their ranking and position within KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd's search engine will be equal to those within their category (Platinum, Gold, Silver, Bronze, etc) other than they will be ranked based on the search engine criteria of optimisation within their level (Platinum, Gold, Silver or Bronze).
- Any delivery claims made by the advertiser or discount vouchers published within the print or online media of KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd in any action as a result of the public or otherwise is the sole responsibility of the advertiser. Any claims resulting from this via KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must be met by the advertiser.
- All credit accounts due for payment shall be notified to the Advertiser by the 30th day following the date of the invoice, time of the essence. All sums due to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd or RBS Factoring shall be paid in full, and the Advertiser shall have no right of set off in any circumstances.
- In the event that payment is not received by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd or RBS Factoring by the due date, the media owner shall be entitled to suspend all further advertising until payment is received and/or repudiate the contract and make any surcharges for breaking the contract.
- In the event that payment is not received by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd by the due date, the media owner reserves the right to charge interest on all overdue balances calculated on a daily basis at the rate of two per cent above the minimum lending rate of National Westminster Bank Plc from time to time in force.
- Notwithstanding anything in these terms and conditions or implied to the contrary, in the event of the Advertiser ceasing to use the services of KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd (for whatever reason), the whole amount of monies due from the Advertiser to the date of cessation shall fall due for immediate payment.
- The Advertiser will be liable for all costs incurred by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd in the recovery of debts not paid by the due date.
- Payment may be made by cheque, credit transfer, direct debit, cash and any major credit card.
- Any discount which KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd may have agreed with the Advertiser shall be forfeited in the event of failure by the Advertiser to complete the contract or to meet the above credit terms.
- Advertising Agency commission will be allowed to those advertisers recognised by the Newspaper Society, but shall not exceed ten per cent and will be subject to the terms of that recognition. This commission will not be allowed if the Advertising Agency fails to meet the terms.

MODERN PENTATHLON

STARRING ROLE: Medway Park was praised by Sir Clive Woodward

Medway Park is a venue to be proud of, says Woodward

ATHLETES, coaches and officials at the Modern Pentathlon World Cup were unanimous in their praise for Medway Park, which was officially opened on Sunday.

The event was awarded to the venue in 2007 before work began on an £11.1 million refurbishment project, which was completed last month.

With its multiple events, the four-day World Cup was an ideal test of all the new facilities, while a sell-out 1,200 spectators watched each of the finals at the weekend.

Sir Clive Woodward, elite performance director of the British Olympic Association, was the guest of honour on Sunday and commended the facilities.

He said: "It's a huge privilege to be here. I had heard about what's happening at Medway Park and was first invited here three years ago. Now we have to be hugely proud of what's been created here and the decision to host something like this here is testament to what's gone on. I think the biggest thing is the huge legacy for the local community."

Jan Bartu, performance director at Pentathlon GB, was impressed with the venue and had received a lot of positive feedback from his counterparts in other countries.

He said: "The organisation has been immaculate and has been recognised by all the international athletes and coaches. In a way I think it superseded last year's Crystal Palace World Championships."

MODERN PENTATHLON

■ BY DAVID PRITCHARD

MHAIRI Spence won Britain's first Modern Pentathlon World Cup medal for more than a year as a highly successful event at Medway Park drew to a close on Sunday.

The 24-year-old took bronze in an excellent day for the British team, who had a record eight athletes come through qualifying to compete in the final.

The hosts had three more athletes in the top ten, while Meopham's Kate French finished 28th on her World Cup debut.

Spence took victory in the fencing discipline and a strong display in the riding arena saw her go into the final event with a six second lead over Amelie Caze. The French athlete, a double world champion, took the lead at the second shoot, while Lithuania's world number two Donata Rimsaite took silver.

The third place was Spence's best World Cup finish and the Scot was delighted with the performance.

She said: "It's been amazing. I've been training well and I knew I was in good shape. I was aiming for the top six, I just wanted to have a decent competition, so to come out on the podium is a bit more than I expected."

"I felt like my legs were going all over the place at the end, but the home crowd carried me over the line."

French, 18, who used to swim at the Black Lion Leisure Centre as a junior before it was converted into Medway Park, was also pleased with her result after successfully negotiating Friday's semi-final.

She said: "My aim was to get into the final and I was really pleased to have done that. My fence was better than the semi, which was good and I equalled my time in the swim. My ride was good but the combined event went a bit wrong, which was a bit annoying."

"All my family had come so it was really good support and the crowd were amazing, I've not had that experience before."

In the men's final on Saturday, Britain's Nick Woodbridge smashed his personal best on the run/shoot event to climb from 18th to finish 14th overall.

Hungary's reigning world champion Adam Marosi won gold in a photo finish with Czech athlete Ondrej Polivka.

Rochester's James Myatt was eliminated in Thursday's semi-final after finishing 23rd in his heat, but the 18-year-old gained valuable experience on his first appearance at a World Cup series event.

Injury fear for Richards as Lions tear Gills apart

FOOTBALL

Gillingham 0

GILLINGHAM will find out this week how much of the run-in they will be without defender Garry Richards, who was carried off in Saturday's defeat at Millwall.

The centre-back collided with goalkeeper Alan Julian five minutes into the second-half and could play no further part in the game. He was taken to hospital to assess the ankle injury on Saturday evening and the Gills will discover the severity of the problem this week.

Richards had played a key role in Gillingham's encouraging run of form since being restored to the side in February. With games against Leeds, Norwich and Southampton all to come, Gills boss Mark Stimson is desperate for the defender to return as quickly as possible.

He said: "We'd like to have Garry available for the games coming up because there are some big centre-forwards, you've got to play against [Grant] Holt, [Jermaine] Beckford and [Rickie] Lambert, who if you're not a man you'll get found out. One thing Garry Richards is, and he proved it last year, is he is up for the challenge. It could be a big loss."

The injury topped off a thoroughly miserable Saturday afternoon for the Gills, who were comfortably beaten by Millwall.

The visitors did have some joy early on, frustrating the home side and carrying a threat of their own. Darren Dennehy headed over, while fit-again Simeon Jackson saw a well-struck volley saved.

But Millwall showed why they are League

One's form side, scoring twice in eight minutes to lead 2-0 at half-time.

The first came from a slick move which opened the Gills up and was well finished by Shaun Batt, while Tony Craig's 20-yard volley doubled the advantage.

Dennehy was forced off at half-time with suspected concussion, while Richards quickly followed.

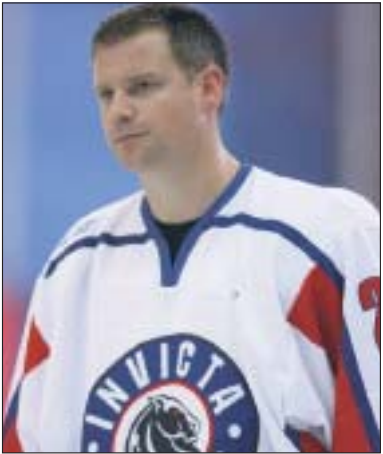

The new centre-half partnership of Josh Gowling and Mark Bentley had clocked up one minute of first-team football between them in two months and Millwall took advantage of the soft centre.

Danny Schofield scored a third on the hour before Neil Harris headed home at a corner shortly afterwards.

The defeat left Gillingham two points above the bottom four going into the midweek games.

FAREWELL: Elliot Andrews retired after Sunday's game

Mos make Stars pay after play-off defeat

Bracknell Hornets 5 Invicta Dynamos 2 Invicta Dynamos 14 Oxford City Stars 3

INVICTA Dynamos finished their season on a high by thrashing Oxford on Sunday, but defeat to Bracknell a day earlier ended their hopes of winning the play-offs.

The 5-2 defeat at Bracknell meant the Mos could not add the play-off title to their league triumph, but they gave their home fans something to shout about by demolishing Oxford.

Following the controversial decision by the English Ice Hockey Association for the Mos to forfeit their home game with Bracknell due to scheduling problems, Kevin Parrish's side had to win both games last weekend to make the final.

The trip to the Hornets was always going to be the biggest hurdle in the post-season. The Mos lost on both their regular season trips to Berkshire and they were unable to prevent a third successive defeat on Saturday night.

The Hornets took an early lead but Elliot Andrews netted to send the sides in level after the first period. The key spell came in the second frame, when three quick goals from the hosts built a 4-1 lead to take charge of the game.

Peter Vaisanen pulled a goal back but a fifth strike six minutes from time sealed Bracknell's place in the play-off final.

Sunday's home game against Oxford was a dead rubber, but the Mos bid farewell to their season in style with a thumping win.

The hosts came flying out of the traps and built a 6-1 lead by the end of the first period. Vaisanen provided the headline with a 25-second hat-trick, while Andrews, Anthony Leone, AJ Smith and Karl Lennon all grabbed two goals.

After the game Andrews announced his retirement after 369 games for the Mos, notching more than 600 points.

Chat's hard work undone by Croydon's late show

FOOTBALL

Chatham Town 1 Croydon Athletic 2

CHATHAM Town's miserable run continued as they conceded two late goals to lose against league leaders Croydon Athletic on Saturday.

Jack Pallen gave the Chats, who also had a Matt Solly penalty saved, a half-time lead.

Croydon hit back in the second-half, but as Town soaked up the pressure they looked to be heading for an impressive victory.

Hopes were dashed as the visitors equalised in the 88th minute, before taking all three points with another goal in stoppage time.

The defeat meant the Chats have picked up just one point from their last eight games.

The biggest disappointment for Town boss Alex O'Brien was how his players could perform so well against Croydon after slipping up against several of the Ryman South's weaker sides in recent weeks.

He said: "The majority of the season we've played well and created chances.

"We huffed and puffed and did well, but didn't kill off the game.

"After we conceded to be honest it looked like if one side was going to score again it would be them. It sums up our season.

"Our work rate was fantastic, but the big thing we want is consistency.

"It's easy to work hard against the top sides, but it's the ones against teams lower down where you want to win.

"It's not doom and gloom at the moment, it's just getting the players to realise if they had continued our form after Christmas we could still have something to play for."

DENIED: Chatham were left to rue Matt Solly's missed first-half penalty as two late goals saw Croydon win

This Saturday marks the Chats' final home game of the season, when they host Walton & Hersham.

The Fehrenbach Brothers are an Austrian family who have been established since 1880 after the 1st world war they changed our retailers name to Fernbank and made shells within the premises for the 2nd world war while carrying on as a jewellers.

Since the recent down turn of the economy the gold & silver market has seen a dramatic upturn, items like old jewellery which are now out of fashion are fetching unbelievable prices. For example fine gents watches are particularly gaining interest, genuine second hand watches like a Rolex could fetch in the region of £8,000.00 maybe more, even if damaged certain watches are sought after, attracting the attention of specialised collectors.

Sovereigns are also fetching a good price.

Currently we have a large client base looking to acquire antiques, certain watches, medals & old furniture, we would like to invite you to take a few minutes to consider what items you may have, you could be literally sitting on a small fortune & have no idea.

We are that confident our clients are serious collectors.
